TUCK'S POST CARD

CARTE POSTALE.

Citadel Gateway. The Citadel was built about 1670, the object being as a guarantee of the town's loyal behaviour. Nowadays as a fortification it is of little importance, being out of date. The Gateway at the entrance on the north side is defended by guns and a portcullis, and after crossing over the ditch is a further gateway, very ornamental, and an excellent specimen of late seventeenth-century work.
